ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE:

A method and devices for managing telephony switches, and thus telephone networks is disclosed. The method and devices allow communication with a telephony switch by way of a packet switched computer network such as the internet. Operations and management messages adhering to a known, pre-defined format, are encapsulated in data packets exchanged over the network.